PERSONAL INJURY

Each year, millions of people in the United States are injured in accidents. Many of these accidents are unfortunately caused by the preventable carelessness or even malicious intent of others. The law protects those harmed by negligent parties and allows the injured to seek compensation for their suffering. If you or a loved one has been injured in an accident resulting from negligence or intentional harm, you may be entitled to receive just compensation for your physical and psychological injuries.

Contact Mike and his firm to help protect your rights and make certain you are taking all of the necessary actions in the recovery process. We know the law. But we also know how claims are handled by insurance companies and their agents. We have experience dealing with law enforcement and other agencies responsible for investigating wrecks and other incidents. We use our own experts to look into the facts of our cases, find witnesses and uncover evidence. Our experience has taught us how to ensure your case seeks all the potential recoveries that are legally available. We work with experts to evaluate how injuries and other damages impact our client's daily lives, their employment and their emotional and physical well-being. Our experience has also taught us how to help our clients through the emotional recovery process that often accompanies serious injuries.

If our Dallas based attorneys feel the initial settlement offered was unjust and inadequate, we will aggressively pursue damages against the individuals or companies that caused the harm. This claim may be based on:

- Negligence | When the injury was a direct result of the defendant's improper actions or inactions.
- Causation | When the actions of an individual or company cause the injury.
- Malicious intent | When the injury is the result of intentional harm. When this is the basis of the claim, a criminal case is usually involved as well.
- Product Liability | When a product does not meet safety standards.

Following our initial meeting with you, we will reconstruct the accident and gather evidence to support your claim. We routinely work with medical professionals, forensic experts and private investigators that can conduct a detailed investigation and produce an independent analysis of your accident.

In far too many cases, one's rights are permanently forfeited because the injured person believed what he or she was told by the insurance company. Insurance companies will employ significant resources to challenge your claim in order to maximize their profits. With powerful legal teams and years of experience, these large corporations often have the edge when dealing with the injured. In such circumstances, you take a tremendous risk if you do not have solid legal counsel on your side. Our experienced personal injury attorneys can help to level the playing field and will work diligently to ensure you receive the compensation you deserve.

While our Texas personal injury law firm cannot undo injury or suffering, we can help obtain significant damages for our injured clients. We are dedicated to obtaining the very best recovery possible for you through experienced, professional and aggressive representation.
